- The Company's platform enables content creators and distributors to upload, distribute, and stream video content over the internet—across smart televisions, smartphones, and applications—serving as an alternative to traditional cable and set-top box delivery.

The Company's technology has supported the streaming of major global events, including the 2024 Paris Olympics, Union of European Football Association (UEFA) football tournaments, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Awards (commonly known as the Oscars), and the 2024 U.S. Presidential debates.
- The Company offers a cloud-based platform designed to assist media companies in addressing operational and commercial challenges in the evolving video economy. The platform integrates production, preparation, distribution, and monetization workflows into a unified interface, helping customers reduce complexity, enhance operational efficiency, and increase content-related revenues.
- The Company's operations are positioned at the convergence of content, distribution, and advertising, with its unified platform facilitating the replacement of legacy broadcast infrastructure with intelligent, data-driven workflows.
- As of September 30, 2025, the Company's solutions supported the media operations of more than 400 content providers, over 350 distributors, and more than 75 advertisers across in excess of 40 countries.
- As of September 30, 2025, the Company collaborated with over 45% of the top 50 listed “media and entertainment” companies by revenue, which includes companies engaged in streaming and broadcasting activities and excludes entities focused exclusively on print media, outdoor advertising, and content creation.
- The Company's customer base includes leading global media organizations such as Vevo, Lionsgate Studios, DAZN, E.W. Scripps, Sinclair, Inc., VIZIO, Roku, The Trade Desk, JioAds, and the Tennis Channel.
- The Company achieved a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 30.70% in revenue from operations between Financial Year 2023 and Financial Year 2025, driven by the acquisition of new customers and increased platform usage by existing customers. The Company's business is structured around three principal verticals: Cloud Modernization, Streaming Unification, and Monetization and Marketplace Solutions.
- As of December 31, 2024, the addressable market for these segments was estimated at approximately US$5.1 billion. Each vertical is tailored to address distinct challenges faced by participants in the media and entertainment ecosystem.

KC Securities ( Kantilal Chhaganlal ) Outlook on Amagi Media Labs Pvt. Ltd IPO

Rating – Neutral

Valuation and Outlook

- Amagi is a leading SaaS company in the Media and Entertainment industry, providing cloud-based technology solutions to content owners and platforms.
- The company enables its clients to achieve cost savings of nearly 30–50%, driving rapid adoption of its offerings. Despite this, industry penetration remains low at approximately 10%, indicating significant headroom for growth.
- Strong customer stickiness, coupled with cross-selling and upselling opportunities, positions Amagi well to sustain a revenue CAGR of around 30% over the medium term. The company has turned PAT positive in H1 FY26, and we believe it is well placed to benefit from the rising demand for cloud-based media solutions.
- The issue is valued at 5x FY26E EV/Sales, which we find reasonable given the company's growth prospects. Accordingly, Our View is 'Neutral' to the issue.
